Let's Start!

I wish I knew my future!

Learning Outcome

Use expressions about relationships and feelings in a range of social and work contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about wishes and imaginary situations.
- I can talk about feelings and impressions.
- I can exchange opinions.

Ask your partner:

- Do you think winning a lottery is possible? Why or why not?
- What would you do if you won a lot of money?
- How would you feel?

Let's Explore!

Sally is continually on the go at work.

* When you are "continually on the go" your day is busy all the time.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Sally: Yes, it is isn't it? Being continually on the go is hard. It's relaxing to let our hair down and just be ourselves, don't you think?
- Vanessa: That's true. At work, I'm always wound up. It's exhausting! I wish I could win some money like you did and take a break. I would be thrilled!
- Sally: It would be wonderful if you did. Think of all the places you could go if you had the money. Imagine the tantalizing dishes you could learn to make! What countries would you head to if you could?
- Vanessa: I really wish I could work with a chef in Paris. I'd also want to take a culinary tour of India and try authentic regional food. I think it would be inspiring!
- Sally: That's what I was thinking! It would be so exciting! Unfortunately, as I see it, without a lot of money it's harder to do.
- Vanessa: I agree. I think your lottery winnings gave you an amazing opportunity.
- Sally: That's what I was going to say!

Let's Practice!

Vanessa would train with a chef in Paris if she could.

Instructions: Choose the words from the Word Bank to correctly complete the sentence. Use capitals where necessary.

Learning Points

Talking about Wishes and Imaginary Situations

You use wish when you want things to be different or you hope(d) for a different past or present.

Subject	Wish	that-clause
I	really wish	that I could work with a chef in Paris.

You can omit that in the that-clause.

For example: I really wish (that) I could work with a chef.

You use the second conditional to talk about imaginary situations in the present or future.

If-clause (condition)	Result clause
If + subject + Simple Past,	subject + modal (could, would, should, might)
If you did,	it would be wonderful!

Examples:

- I wish I could win some money like you did and take a break.
- Think of all the places you could go if you had the money.
- What countries would you head to if you could?

Learning Points

Exchanging Opinions

When you exchange opinions, you give your ideas on a topic. Usually the person you are talking to responds to your opinion.

Giving an Opinion	Responding to an Opinion
Don't you think ... ? I think that ... As I see it ... I think ...	Yes, it is, isn't it? That's what I was going to say! I agree. That's what I was thinking!

Examples:

• Anna: Don't you think having quality downtime with friends is important?*

Tom: Yes, it is, isn't it?

• Anna: *It's relaxing to let our hair down and just be ourselves don't you think?

Tom: That's true.

• Anna: I think that winning the lottery gave you an amazing opportunity.*

Tom: That's what I was going to say!
